A DELICATE CHILU

Made Strong By Our Vinol

Fayetteville, N. C. — "My little daughter was in poor health, delicate and so weak it made us very uneasy. I heard about Vinol and decided to try it and the results were marvelous, her appetite improved, she gained in weight, and is now one of the healthiest children in town. Mothers of delicate children should try Vinol." — Mrs. GORDON JESSUP.
Vinol is a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, a constitutional tonic which treats an appetite, aids digestion and makes pure healthy blood.
All children love to take it.

MORTGAGE SALE NOTICE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of trust, executed on the 15th day of July, 1912, by Howard Caldwell and wife, J. T. Caldwell to the undersigned trustee, which said deed of trust is recorded in Book No.
85 at page No. 63 of the Records of Mortgages and deeds of trust for Henderson County, to secure the indebtedness therein mentioned, and default having been made in the payment of the said debt and interest, and having been requested so to do by the creditor, I will sell to the highest bidder, for cash, at the Court House door in Hendersonville, Hen-dred and twenty-two poles to a stake in the county line, thence with said line to the beginning, containing one hundred and seven acres more or less.

This being the same land as described in a deed from Rachel Sumner to S. J. Sumner by deed dated April the 12th 1893, and recorded in Book 21 page 70 of Henderson County records for deeds. Also the same land conveyed by A. L. Richardson and wife Ella Richardson to S. J. Sumner by deed dated the 30th day of February, 1901, and recorded in deed book 42 at page 186 of the Henderson County records, and being the home place of the said S. J. Sumner.

The deed of trust under which this sale is to be made is dated June 6th, 1912, and recorded in Book 85 at page 47 of the records for deeds of trust and mortgages for Henderson County.

THEY ARE ONLY BLUFFING.

(By George Weymouth in Farm Life.) I always mistrust those wise and superior people who sneer at Christmas.
Every time I hear one of them growling his state sarcasms, I think of Uncle Jim Bill Sneed. There was a practical man for you. No sentimental foolishness about him! He never gave anybody a Christmas gift, and always grunted in disgust when the presents were distributed.

"I wish I could turn into a groundhog this time o' year," he used to say.
"I'd surely crawl into my hole about the first of December and stay there till after New Years. Then I could dodge all this Christmas gift foolishness. It's foolishness. It's all right for little children, but grown-ups ought to have more sense."

His wife was different, of course.
It's a good thing sometimes, that wives are different. Aunt Sallie was liberal enough for two. She gave presents everybody, even to Uncle Jim Bill.

Uncle Jim Bill was an old-timer. He never wore overcoats, but always wrapped himself up in one of those blue and green striped comforts. He would wind it twice around his neck, cross the ends over his chest and tuck them in under his arms.

Every year for thirty years Aunt Sallie crocheted a new comforter for Uncle Jim Bill's Christmas present. He would hum and haw, and likes as not make some ungrateful remark about it

But he always wore it, and we could see that he was as proud as a boy with a new pair of boots.

Well, one Christmas we boys decided to punish Uncle Jim Bill. We sneaked into the clothes press where Aunt Sallie had her Christmas gifts wrapped and ready to deliver, and changed the tag on the comforter.

That Christmas Eve everybody gathered by the big fire place and the gifts were distributed. Uncle Jim Bill was there, growling as usual about the silliness of the custom. Little Aleck read the names on the packages and handed them around, leaving the comforter till the last. When Aleck picked up the comforter Uncle Jim Bill grinned and growled in his beard.

He expected to hear the old familiar message: "To My Dear Husband, from His Wife, Sallie." But instead this is what Aleck read: "To John Ballinger, from His Good Friend Aunt Sallie, with Best Wishes for a Merry Christmas." Then Aleck handed the comforter to the hired man!

Uncle Jim Bill's grin faded, and his growl changed to a gasp, as the enormity of the thing came over him. Aunt Sallie had given him comforter to the hired man!

Aunt Sallie tried to explain, but Uncle Jim Bill wouldn't wait to hear he left the room the most heart-broken man you ever saw. She wanted to follow, but he held her, and explained the joke, which didn't look like a joke any longer. She cried, of course, and felt worse about it than he did if possible.

An hour later, when Uncle Jim Bill came in from the barn looking like the chief mourner at a funeral, we gave him the precious comforter and explained that the tags had been changed by mistake. He took it, sheepishly enough, but he hugged Aunt Sallie, and she cried on his shoulder, and everybody was happy.

Was Uncle Jim Bill cured? He was.
He never growled about Christmas again. He became a more liberal giver than even Aunt Sallie. He radiated Christmas spirit like a regular Santa Claus all the rest of his life.

So I always mistrust these people that affect to sneer at Christmas. I think they are like Uncle Jim Bill. They are only bluffing. They love Christmas just as well as you and I do. It would break their hearts to be left out of the merriment and gift-giving.

Then let's wish them, one and all and everybody, a Merry Christmas!

"DO YOU NEED A JOB? ASK UNCLE SAM," SAYS WILSON.

In the January Woman's Home Companion Secretary of Labor William B.
Wilson says:

"If you want a job, ask Uncle Sam.
If you want an employee, ask Uncle Sam. The service is free. Distance is no object. Your postmaster will act as employing agent and the Government will do the rest."

"The national employment bureau, operated under the auspices of the Department of Labor, will receive applications for employment for many individual in the United States; it is ready to find help for employers. The object is not only to bring the 'personless' job and the 'jobless' person together, but to put the right person in the right place. It is one of the biggest things the Government of the United States has ever undertaken."

"I earnestly commend the facilities of this bureau, not only to any and all employers but to all individuals seeking work. Women can make use of it as freely and readily as men. The success of the entire plan now depends upon the willingness with which the average wage earner seeking a position will make use of the Government's aid in getting the job."

"The Department of Agriculture and the Postoffice Department are both cooperating with the Department of Labor to make the object a success. Employment blanks have been sent to all postmasters of the country and to every field agent of the Department of Agriculture. These blanks may be had upon request. Employers will state upon them the number and kind of employees they are in need of, and employees will specify, in turn the kind of work they want. It makes no difference what kind of work it is; it may be housework, stenography, farming, bricklaying, cooking, domestic help.
The blanks will, upon their return, be assorted and classified, and then the Department of Labor, through its Division of Information, will make its effort to bring the wage earner and the job together."

HE late Shopper is a prominent member of the Genus Procrastinatus.

He has his own peculiar way of celebrating Christmas. Often he celebrates it in bed, with a water bag on his chest and the grip of an anxious physician around his wrist. His eyes are closed and his poor, warped brain is worn in a sling.

On the floor beside his bed, torn to shreds and bitten in numerous places, lies his Christmas list. The day before Christmas he sallied forth with this list in his hand and a look of desperate determination on his features.

The Late Shopper is a cheerful giver, withal. He loves giving for his own sake, but he loves it better for the sake of putting it off. Decidedly he is no believer in the "Do-it-now" movement. Nor is he selfish. It is just a habit. It is to be feared that if he were dying of thirst he would put off giving himself a drink.

Philanthropists should find rest sanctuaries for Late Christmas Shoppers —the kind that are incurable. Here they could retire and nurse their wounds, incurred in the last toy counter rush.

How fortunate it is that Santa Claus was not born a late shopper. He is always on the job, and gets ready for the holiday season months ahead, we are reliably informed by the nur-ery books. However, Santa Claus is in constant danger of losing his repatation. There are hundreds of fond Fathers who pose as Santa Claus to their little broods, Papas who sally forth to collect a bagful of toys just when the stores are closing on Christmas eve, and the holly garlands are being taken down, and the manager of the dress goods department is getting ready to announce, "Spring and Summer Styles."

The Late Shoppers we have always with us. As eleventh-hour athletes, they take all the running, jumping and line-plunging honors. But often the Late Shopper has one good mark to his credit. He puts off giving at all times, and therefore puts off giving a piece of his mind to his wife.

BEEF SCRAPS PRODUCE EGGS.

That it is a poor policy for farmers not to feed some kind of food to their chickens which is high in protein value—such as beef scraps or sour milk—is the opinion of H. L. Kempster, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Missouri.

Mr. Kempster has recently conducted an experiment which he believes proves conclusively that protein food produces greatest results at lower cost.

In three separate pens the same number of chickens were kept. All were fed corn all of the time, wheat part of the time, and in addition ground grain rations of bran, middlings, and corn meal. Besides this regular feed for the chickens in all three pens, those in pen one were fed beef scraps, and those in pen three were given all the sour milk they wanted. The hens were about the same age. The experiment covered the time between November 1 and June 1.

The hens in pen two—given only the regular feed—produced only 350 eggs; those in pen one—given beef scraps—produced 1518 eggs, and those in pen three—fed sour milk—produced 1425 eggs. The hens in pen one ate 925 pounds of grain, those in pen two 944 pounds and those in pen three 836 pounds.

The amount of beef scraps fed to the chickens in pen one was 60 pounds, costing $1.80. These hens produced 718 more eggs than those chickens fed only the regular ration.

GROWING USE OF FRUIT IN DIET.

In the January Woman's Home Companion Cora Farmer Perkins, in charge of the famous school of cookery that was conducted by the late Fannie Merritt Farmer, writes:

"There is no article of diet that has increased in use during the last few years so rapidly as fruit. When fresh fruits are expensive and difficult to obtain dried fruits may well take their place. Among the dried fruits, dates, figs and prunes hold a conspicuous place. They combine so admirably
